Mr. Rafael M. Salas
Executive Director
United Nations Development Programme
New York 10017

Thank you so much for forwarding your recently published book, People: An International Choice. I am sharing it with a number of our analysts who will read it with interest. As for myself, I do indeed recall with enthusiasm my involvement with the objectives of this program.

Sincerely,

George Bush

Dear Mr. Bush,

I am taking the liberty of sending you a complimentary copy of my recently published book "People: An International Choice". In this book I have endeavoured to give a fair account of the United Nations involvement in population matters and the emergence of the UNFPA as the central organization in this field. Many of the events I have described will be familiar to you in that you yourself played a part in making population activities a matter of international commitment and in giving the counsel and support that is enabling the World Organization to provide practical assistance to countries seeking help with population problems.

I remain,
Yours sincerely,
